Dear Rachel,

Thank you for joining the American Public Health Association. No other organization is as uniquely qualified to navigate the changing public health landscape as APHA. We’re glad to add your voice to a network of professionals committed to improving and protecting the public’s health.

APHA membership includes a wealth of benefits to help you network with public health professionals, advance your career, expand your expertise, and influence the direction of national and local health policy.

Science and Industry Resources

Your membership provides access to our award-winning publications and resources.

- American Journal of Public Health, the leading peer-reviewed monthly journal, contains original public health research, program evaluations and special reports. Access AJPH on your E-Reader or E-Reader enabled device.

Annual Meeting and Exposition

APHA's Annual Meeting and Exposition is the premier public health event in the world.

Each year, thousands of public health professionals gather to share their latest research, build partnerships and address emerging health issues.

Join us in Boston, MA (November 2-6, 2013). Register today and take advantage of significant discounts for members.
New Member Benefit!

MPH@GW

Become a catalyst for change when you earn your Master of Public Health from the prestigious George Washington University School of Public Health and Health Services (SPHHS). Through our key partnership, APHA members can take advantage of a $7,500 scholarship when you enroll in GW's online Master of Public Health program.

Learn more about MPH@GW.

APHA Press

Check out these important new titles from APHA Press.

Veteran Suicide: A Public Health Imperative.

- The Nation's Health, the highest circulated periodical in the field, focuses on current public health news from your local state legislature and the nation's capital. You can take the information anywhere you go with The Nation's Health smartphone application.
- APHA Press, the world's foremost publisher of books and periodicals on public health topics, offers publications that are written and edited by distinguished researchers. Members receive up to a 30% discount on such publications as Control of Communicable Diseases Manual, 19th Ed, and Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder and Chronic Health Conditions.

Access current and historical archives for AJPEn and The Nation's Health with your personal username and password. Don't know your username and password?

Professional Development

APHA provides you with the opportunity to expand your expertise and advance your career in public health.

- Annual Meeting & Exposition is the premier public health event in the world with more than 12,500 attendees, 1,000 scientific sessions, and 600 exhibitors in 2012. APHA members receive substantial discounts on registration.
- Public Health CareerMart, the #1 job site for public health professionals.
- The Career Development Center offers resume critiquing, career coaching, reference verification, and other career services.

Community

With over 25,000 members, the APHA community provides unique opportunities and platforms to connect and network with public health professionals.

- APHA's discipline-based professional communities allow you to share information and experience with your peers and contribute to a growing body of scientific knowledge in a public health area of your interest. Membership includes access to two (2) Sections/SPIGs. Contact your section leader to join the discussion.
- Network and collaborate at APHA's exclusive online community, APHA Connect. Through listerves, libraries, calendars, and more, you can connect with other public health professionals around health issues that matter most to you. Log on using your members credentials and join the discussion today!
• APHA advocates on behalf of public health and public health professionals like you. Learn more about current advocacy and policy issues affecting public health.

Again, thank you for joining APHA and working toward creating the healthiest nation in one generation. If you have any questions or concerns with your membership, please contact us at 202-777-2400 or membership.mail@apha.org.

Welcome to APHA!

Sara Miller, MBA, CAE
Director, Membership